They participated in the production of numerous Hollywood blockbusters while delivering some of the most amazing domestic VFX movies, including “The Red Eagle” and “At the Gate of the Ghost”. After being incorporated into Renegade VFX under the quid of Luma Pictures founder Artaya Boonsoong, in late 2013 domestic and international operations have been split. The team has built a strong reputation in Japan, in particular for VFX-packed live action movies and TV projects, but also with an impressive portfolio of works for anime, commercials, games and pachinko projects.
